Ann Arbor Expands Kurzweil Use to Network

Job Skill Technology, Inc. (JST, Inc.) is proud to announce that Ann Arbor Public Schools has installed Kurzweil 3000 on their network so that the product is readily accessible to students throughout the district. Staff and students will be able to access curriculum via the computer and use the flexible Kurzweil tools to assist with reading, writing and study skills. Kurzweil 3000 is a multi-sensory software program that has been proven to provide benefits to students with various reading and language difficulties. Ann Arbor Public Schools is committed to using available technology tools to help increase student achievement. The district has elected to partner with JST, Inc. because of their reputation for the highest levels of product knowledge and support and their "above and beyond" commitment to their clients.
